

I am writing about the decision by Sinclair Broadcasting to force their stations to carry an anti-Kerry show before the election.

I thought that since these stations are using public airwaves, they are required to subscribe to fairness.
Surely that was the intent of previous laws. But now that media is so consolidated, these stations are to be used as someone's personal propaganda device?

This is wrong. I will now work for return of the fairness doctrine.

Sincerely,
Katherine Duff
